SERVICE ABOVE SELF: WILLIAM CHISM, JR.

Growing up, my parents taught me and my 3 brothers and 2 sisters the value of hard work and community service. I'm a proud 1984 graduate of Whitehaven High School. I also attended Shelby State Community College and Memphis State University. My wife Allison and I, together, are the proud parents of 4 children. I've been the CEO of Chism Process Services for seven years now — working within the Shelby County Courts on a daily basis.

Many people are unfamiliar with the Probate Court Clerk's office. The office oversees civil matters like wills, estates, guardianships, and conservatorships in Shelby County. Some rules and procedures, by law, can't be changed, but I'll work hard to ensure the office is more efficient and improve customer service.

I've gotten to know many people on both sides of the system over the years. I want to make sure the highest quality of service is given to citizens using the court system, but still maintain the integrity and impartiality of the Probate Court Clerk's Office. My goal is to make sure citizens who use the Probate Court are given accountability, efficiency and, above all, a fair shot at the best possible outcome. I am committed to service above self, I need your vote.
